The University
HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION
THE LANDS OF THE ABOVE NAMED ASSOCIAtion are situated in San Francisco and are eligibly and most desirably located adjoining the grounds purchased by the Presbyterian University Society, on which College buildings are to be at once erected. The site is less than thirty minutes ride from Montgomery street; lying just west or back of the lands of the South San Francisco Homestead and Railroad Association and the Bay View Park almost within a stone's throw of

ST. MARY'S COLLEGE.
The tract will require little or no grading, there being scarcely a single lot on which it would not be safe to build without any change of grade. It commands a

Beautiful View of the Bay,
And its opposite shore, and has a soil of extreme richness. So great are the natural attractions of the spot that very many of the wealthy citizens of San Francisco have already purchased whole blocks in the same tract and design building residences thereon.

The Rev. E. Thomas, D. D.,
Is President of the Association, Lester L. Robinson formerly Vice President of the Sacramento Railroad Company, is the Treasurer, and Thomas B. Lewis, formerly of Portland, Secretary.
Four lots, 25x120 feet, each, constitute a share costing $115—paid in monthly installments of $10 each, after the first payment of $20 has been made.
Maps and books giving full information of the workings of the Association can be obtained at the store of J. L. PARRISH & CO.
It is an easy and a cheap way for young men to procure property which will in a few years make them independent.

Tammany Hall

[From the N. Y. Times, March 21st.]

The final sale of this famous political convent icle, and the consequent migration of the fossil politicians who have for so many years inhabited it, is sufficient provocation for recording something of the history of the house and of the men whose names and labors have made it famous. The house was an afterthought—the original of the Tammany Society is more interesting. Tammany whose power was widely extended over the aboriginal tribes about the time the "daring Genoese" took the liberty of discovering the New World that the Italian Yankee, Americus Vespucci, cheated him out of. Tammany was a sort of Hiawatha, and was honored and revered from the Lakes to the sea. When the stolid Dutchmen, under Peter Minuits, settled this happy island they had a lofty contempt for the Indian owners, but not many moons had waned before the Ten Broecks and the Van Cortlands were apprised of the disagreeable fact that even Indians had rights that white men were bound to respect. There was a hauling in of horns on the part of the colonists, and the curious wares of Holland soon became the medium of exchange for city lots and beaver skins, in place of the long winded Dutch oaths that were at first supposed to be the only needful currency. From the antagonisms of the Indians and the aggressions of the whites, there grew, of course, a perpetual collision, and for more than a hundred years the citizens of New York slept no wink until the great gates in the picket wall crossing at Wall street from river to river had been securely locked, and the burly sentinels, armed with that old-fashioned blunderbuss that looked like a half-grown howitzer, had assumed their stations at the bastions and the river fronts.

After the Revolution, the exuberant spirit of independence led us into many extravagances. Democracy, pure and simple, as it was long ago tried (and failed) in Greece, was the especial hobby of those who assumed to lead public opinion. It was a question of time whether Washington should be chosen or repudiated, had he been eight years later a candidate, he would have been defeated, Jefferson would have whipped him out of his boots.

It was on the occasion of Washington's Inauguration, in 1793, that a few of the ambitious political spirits of the day crystalized into a society, for the name of which they chose the "Tammany Society, or the Columbian Order." At this day no one could suspect that this association originated among the sternest and most prominent patriots of the Revolution. Yet it is true. The original idea was to perpetuate the fame and principles of the Sons of Liberty and the men who had fought for freedom under Washington and Putnam and Gates and Lafayette. In order to make a broad mark among themselves and the St. George's, St. Andrew's and other associations imported from Europe, they undertook an exclusively American basis, and selected the good Saint Tammany as their patron. In May, 1789, they had a celebration, at which the public first became acquainted with their peculiar ceremonies—such as dressing in Indian costume, smoking the calumet, shrieking the war whoop etc. Wm. Mooney was then Grand Sachem, (the organization was that of a village of Indian lodges,) Phil Hone, James Tylee, Gabriel Furman, Abe Hardenbrook and others were high officials, and Gardiner Baker was Wiskinskie, or doorkeeper. All save two of the officers were Federalists. In 1790, when the celebrated John Fintard was a leading officer, a most curious event occurred. The then United States had for some time desired to make friends of the powerful Indian tribes existing within their borders. Among these, the Creeks (who afterward gave Jackson so much trouble) were of especial importance. In 1790, Col. Marinus Willett, an honored New Yorker, visited the Creek nation and induced a half breed of eminence named Alexander Macgillvray (of course a jolly Scot) and about a dozen of the principal chiefs to visit the Great Father (President Washington) at New York. The red-skins came, and the Tammany Society received them with all the honors; the members were dressed in full Indian costume, with war paint, the most fearful and feathers the most obtrusive. Moccasins shod the feet, leggins of deer skins covered their shins, tall crane feathers and eagle quills bristled from their helmets, and war-clubs (one of which was the pattern of all the Indian clubs now twirled for exercise,) and tomahawks filled their hands. On reaching the wigwam (then a real wigwam) on the green turf by Hudson's wave, the Indians were so much delighted and deceived as to set up a genuine war-whoop, the fearful sound of which set the crowd of spectators flying as if a mad bull had been loosed in their midst. It is recorded in the archives of Tammany, that among the white Indians present on this occasion were Gov. George Clinton, Chief-Justice John Jay, Mayor Duane, Thomas Jefferson, (then Secretary of State,) and nearly all the leading Federalists of the City. (The Democracy, as a party, at that time, was lying perdu in the brain of Thomas Jefferson.) The real Indians were delighted; they whooped, they yelled, they danced the medicine dance, they drank the fire water they sang a native and peculiar song, and the Grand Sachem made them a speech, in which he said that Christopher Columbus was the first white Grand Sachem and Saint Tammany the first copper-colored Sachem, and their spirits were then in the wigwam. The pipe of peace was smoked, and one of the Creek chiefs was made Sachem of the white town (New York,) and in the evening the whole crowd attended the theatre. The result of this scheme was that the Creeks, before they left New York, made a treaty of peace and friendship with President Washington, "the Sachems of thirteen fires." The next year the Society collected a museum, which was located in the City Hall, (on the site of the present sub-Treasury or Custom House.) After many vicissitudes, it fell into the hands of Scudder, whose balcony was immortalized in Halleck's poetry, and still later became a part of the American Museum, which grew to such a satisfactory end under the control of Phineas T. Barnum.

When Jefferson began to rise into political importance, the Tammany Society went into notoriety with him. Before this period, Joseph Ogden Hoffman was Grand Sachem, and Dewitt Clinton was a subordinate Secretary. In those days Tammany was steering a middle course, the leaders of the French Revolution, were not decided upon, and were unmistakably shaky upon the Alien and Sedition Laws. They were against ultraism and against fossilism, they feared not go ahead lest they might be too fast, they could not remain at anchor, because the people would call them too slow. Very soon it became manifest that party principles were subordinate to personal ambition, they advocated the French Democracy in private, and drank confusion to them in public; they toasted the Jay Treaty, against which their principles (if they had any) revolted, Democracy had fusidiously poisoned their original federation, and when Adams would be despotic interference in the rights of the people became matter of public concern, Federalism died out. In 1800 the current was flowing the other way at the election for officers the candidates of the newly invented "Republican" party were successful by a large majority. Thus far the Tammany Society had been little better than an experiment. The settlement of the Government by the inauguration of George Washington left patriotism free to seek personal and political channels. The great and controlling idea set forth in the Declaration of Independence, of human equality, was the point upon which Jefferson set his fate. Had he been of a Northern State, where the negro was rare and free Thad. Stevens would have had no occasion to urge suffrage to colored men—Tom Jefferson would have outbid him a hundred to one—it was only the moral restraint that grows from social position that forced the apostle of Democracy to speak with boadman's key in bated breath—the mere shadow of truth that was in him. To return to Tammany, the newest notion was Democracy. Not one in ten of the "Indians" knew the meaning of the word, but discipline exercised its authority, and the rank and file fell in, in serried ranks, at the crack of the Sachem's whip. On a corner opposite the present office of the New York Daily Times those mock Indians met in those days to indulge in their incantations. "Brom Martling," or Abraham Martling, had there a ricketty wooden shed, on the first floor a rum shop, (of course) with an entrance on Nassau street. The Tribune office now stands on the ground; the Sun was printed there thirty years ago the True Sun afterward, Levi D. Slamm's New Era after that and the Day Book (in a dark corner) still later. That was sixty six or sixty seven years ago, and at that day the leaders of the Tammany Society were Abe Stagg Bill Ireland, John Targee, Ben Romaine, Lidad Holmes, Pete Sharp, Gus Wright, Abe Valentine, Clarky Clorius, Joe Rimball, Bill Mott, and lots more.

About this time the politics of the State began to push into notice, and challenge attention with the affairs of the general Government. Thomas Jefferson was looming up, and the political world was greatly excited. Though he duly respected ancient traditions, this man of the people was recklessly shaking the structure of caste and superiority that had supplanted the aristocracy and privileged orders of British system, much of which lived through the fires and perils of the Revolution to plague the men of the new regime. Jefferson's election removed the Federal party to the rear, and it was in the past tense. Tammany was in trouble. Its great men were Federalists, but Federalism was evidently on the losing side. Trimming, dodging and all the little tricks of the trade, broke out. Clinton, Chancellor, Livingston and Aaron Burr were prominent in the wordy war. Burr was charged with bad faith (strange!) John Startwout quarreled with Clinton, and the two belligerents went over to Hoboken and shot at each other, Startwout being wounded. (Was this the avant courier of the famous Burr and Hamilton duel?) But we cannot follow the Tammany Society through the chaotic period from 1801 to 1810. Within that time Burr was tried for treason, his great duel occurred, Dan. D. Tompkins ran for Governor, and the star DeWitt Clinton began to rise in the political firmament.

Clinton was gall and wormwood to Tammany. They accused him of ambition untempered by honesty; that if he did not actually oppose Madison in the war with Great Britain, he was but lukewarm in his support, and he came only at the last moment to approve of the embargo. In this emergency the Tammany Society broke ground upon the line that afterward made them famous, or infamous, if the reader please. They nominated Col. Marinus Willett, a Revolutionary officer of honorable memory, to beat Clinton, and

More "Retrenchment"

The majority of the City Council of Portland express their determination to provide for the support of their organ Not, however, by their individual contributions or patronage, (which would be an unexceptionable method), but by taxes levied on the citizens at large No doubt there are many Democrats here, Democrats both by faith and practice, who deem it highly essential to the welfare of their party to have their organ continue its existence,—an idea to which nobody will object if those same persons who are so anxious to preserve the breath of life in the Herald will take on themselves the exclusive charge of supporting it. But when the city, which we are told is already overburdened with taxes, is compelled to submit to a great additional charge to support the organ of an accidental Mayor and an accidental Democratic majority in the Council, there are those who claim the right to protest, if nothing more. The Council has enacted that all ordinances which it may hereafter pass shall be published in their organ for the space of five days, a proceeding which is entirely unnecessary, and which was taken only for the purpose of giving the Herald a fat job. In other words, a heavy public charge is incurred as a gift for charity to that paper.

A donation of $1,000,—perhaps more,—is a very pretty "plum" for a paper which told its readers not long ago that it had been struggling against the necessity of suspending publication for want of means to continue. Yet this sum of $1,000 is the very smallest amount which will come to the Herald in the way of charity under this new arrangement within a year This is exclusive of the regular printing which will amount to $500. If the Council enacts as many ordinances this year as it enacted last, (and on account of street improvements, etc, the number is likely to be as large or larger than last year,) their publication cannot cost less than $1,000, and will probably cost much more These facts were well known to those members of the Council who voted for the resolution, and it was for this very reason that they entered into this arrangement. They saw an opportunity to put this amount of the people's money into the "organ" and thus make them contribute to its support, and of course they did not hesitate to do it. Why should they? Are they not in favor of an economical administration of our city affairs, and has it not been their special vocation to talk of "retrenchment" for months past —though letting no opportunity escape to reward their partisans at the expense of the public?

The new city character is different from the old one in that everything must now be done by ordinance instead of simply by resolutions as formerly Under the old charter there were therefore few ordinances passed, and their publication was attended with but little expense. From the time when the new charter went into operation until now, very few ordinances have been published, for the reason that the change in the charter requiring everything to be done by ordinances would have made the cost of printing enormously great, had all ordinances been published as before. The publication of the ordinances was discontinued by Council entirely for economical reasons. But now this very economical Democratic majority reverses this action, and undertakes to fulfill its promise of reducing the expenses of the city government by throwing a large sum as a special gift to their organ.

Few ordinances have been published in the daily papers since the new charter went into operation, and none at all had been published in this way for several months until the Herald was recently authorized to do it. Yet there has been no complaint on the part of citizens because they had not been so published. A few ordinances are enacted in the course of the year of which publication should, for public convenience, be ordered in a newspaper, but the number of this sort, when compared with the whole, is very small. There would now be no thought of publishing the whole of them at the expense of the city, were it not that the majority of the Council design to compel the city to support the organ of their party. But for this purpose the old rule would have been continued Citizens should remember, however, that we are now living under the rule of "economy" With our present Mayor and Council, "retrenchment" is the word. Their idea of cheap administration is to vote away the public money for partisan purposes, and without any corresponding return to the city. They say this is "economy," "and these, you know, are honorable men!"

We really cannot think what these members will next order their organ to print at the public expense, unless, indeed, it be Mr. Councilman, Hallock's speeches. It is hoped that a resolution authorizing this to be done, will be introduced without delay.

The city election is approaching, and it remains to be seen whether our citizens will sanction the species of "economy" that is practised by the present Council

It will be remembered that the case of Philip Francis Thomas, lately elected a Senator from Maryland, was under advisement in the Senate a short time ago, and that he was refused admission into that body until certain charges against him could be investigated. He was Secretary of the Treasury for a short time under Buchanan, and in that capacity and in concert with the heads of the other Departments, assisted the rebels in hatching their treasonable plots against the Government. On this ground his right to sit in the Senate was very properly questioned; and his case, we believe, has not yet been decisively acted upon. The speech he made when he was elected Senator is, itself, sufficiently objectionable to call for his exclusion. Here is an extract

The men now assembled in Washington, before the war occurred were bent upon destroying the Union They went to war believing it tantamount to dismemberment, and were now bent on the establishment of a military despotism. He would go there to face these men, who are now and always were traitors to the Union.

Is not the Senate perfectly right in excluding a man who, with the record of his personal disloyalty written in the history of the country and burned in his own forehead, now talks in this way about the patriotic body of which he seeks to be a member?

The "organ" don't believe what our Generals who conquered the rebellion say of the state of affairs in the South. It thinks their statements are entitled to no credit whatever, because "their positions and their bread and butter depend upon establishing the fact to which they testify!" It was only a little while ago that the "organ" was claiming that all our successful Generals were Democrats of unimpeachable veracity. Yet it now thinks they would resort to the most despicable of all transactions for the sake of their bread and butter. The "organ" would much sooner credit the statements of that model Democrat Mayor Monroe, or of that "Christian gentleman, Vice President Stephens," than those of General Thomas or Sheridan,

The best sugar enterprise has proved a success in Chatsworth, Livingston county, Illinois Four thousand tons of beets were raised last year on four hundred acres of prairie land, at a cost of $4 a ton, yielding 400,000 pounds of refined sugar The returns are as large as are obtained from the rich soils of Belgium and France

Democratic Kentucky.—General Brisbin, formerly Adjutant of Kentucky, gives the following fact "The military police records of Lexington show that out of a population of 1,600 white male adults in 1855, there were fifty three men living in concubinage with colored women"

State of the Debt.

In August, 1865, the public debt reached the highest point, and since then it has been steadily decreasing At that date the amount of the debt, less cash in the treasury, was $2,757,863,786. At the commencement of the present year it amounted to $2,543,325,172 Late statements show that by this time it has probably been reduced to $2,500,000,000. This shows a total diminution, in the period of twenty-one months, of $257,000,000, or an average reduction of more than twelve millions per month The late statements relative to the receipts of the Government from all sources for the last nine months are quite favorable as compared with those for the nine months immediately preceding. There has been some falling off, but less than might, under all the circumstances, have reasonably been anticipated. For the period of nine months prior to July, 1866, the receipts from all sources amounted, in round numbers, to $985,000,000 For the succeeding nine months, bringing the dates down to April, 1867, the receipts are estimated at $363,000,000. This is better than seems to have been generally expected The reduction of the debt by the sum of $43,000,000 since the first of January is almost up to the average rate of reduction since August, 1865.

Industrial and Immigrant Aid Association.—An association of prominent citizens has been organized in San Francisco, with a capital of five million dollars, to encourage European immigration of industrial classes. The Association proposes to establish local agencies throughout the State and allot to each a sufficient amount for capital for investment The following from the circular of the Association affords full knowledge of the purposes of the gentlemen composing the same

We propose to establish local agencies in connection with us at various desirable points in the interior, and to allot a suitable amount of our capital to each agency to be lent out by them upon such real estate, or other property, as shall be approved by the Directors

We propose to take up large tracts of land, where desirable and suitable for settlers, to ascertain the title, and subdivide the same into suitable farms, which we shall sell at long credit to agricultural settlers, at moderate interest, receiving payments yearly, by instalments.

In addition to this, we shall endeavor to assist deserving farmers with seed, animals and farming implements, receiving pay for the same, with interest, in yearly instalments

We propose to assist, by our capital, the establishment of manufactories in cities, towns and country, where local facilities invite the enterprise.

A Commercial Marine we hold to be an indispensible adjunct to a prosperous people—where prudence shall not be a safe channel for investment in this branch, we shall be willing to assist.

We propose to give to distant strangers full and faithful reports, from time to time of the condition of this State, the demand and the rate of wages for all kind of labor, the cost of living, of rent, of travel and to shield them on arrival from being misled or pluudered to give them honest information about where to go and what to do as to where good lands are to be obtained or where labor is in demand, and where homes are to be found

All such important aids to the immigrant will be a part of the duties we aspire to perform

With these objects to attain we ask the support and active co-operation of all who intend to make California their home, and the home of their children to every one of whom we are about to offer vast benefits, by an increased population from Europe and the Eastern States of the Union, by more and varied employments for those that are here increasing thereby the value of lands, and lots, and house property as well in the city of San Francisco, as throughout the wide interior

Michigan Judicial Election.—The Republicans have elected their candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court of Michigan by nearly 23,000 majority The "reaction" is not very formidable in the Badger State.

THIS COMPANY HAVING GREATLY enlarged their Refining Works, and introduced many other important improvements, are pleased to announce that they feel warranted in again reducing materially their terms of doing business
THE TARIFF OF CHARGES
Which they now submit to the public—considered with reference to the cost of material and labor—is lower than in any other part of the world, and secures to the mining interest of this coast an important increase in both the mining and commercial value of bullion.
Their charges hereafter will be as follows:
FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNPARTED GOLD BARS.
One eighth of one per cent (twenty-five a quarter) for all amounts over $1,000, and two dollars for any smaller sum Returns made in twenty four hours.
FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNPARTED SILVER BARS
Two dollars for the gold contained, up to $1,000, and one-eighth of one per cent, for all amounts over that sum, and one per cent on the silver contained Returns made in twenty four hours.
FOR REFINING DEPOSITS MADE FOR COIN OR FINE BARS.
On bullion under 900 parts gold, 2 cents per ounce
On bullion from 900½@960 parts gold, 4 cents per ounce
On bullion from 960½@750 parts gold, 6 cents per ounce
On bullion from 750½@949½ parts gold, 8 cents per ounce
Above 950 the only charge will be for coinage. But there will be no charge for refining less than two dollars.
FOR COINING GOLD.
This charge will be the same as at the Mint—a half of one per cent.—and which is paid by us to that institution But there will be no charge in future for making fine gold or silver bars from bullion refined by us
RETURNS IN COIN IN FORTY EIGHT HOURS
Silver contained in deposits for coin will be accounted for at the same rate customary at the Mint.
Gold bars of other Assayers, in good standing, will be cashed by us at the highest market rates
Dust and bullion can be forwarded to us from any part of the country, and returns made through Wells, Fargo & Co s Express CHARGES AT U. S BRANCH MINT.
For the convenience of those not familiar with the terms of the Mint, we subjoin the tariff of charges now in force at that institution
For refining bullion under 900 parts gold, 3 cents per ounce
For refining bullion from 900½@900 parts gold 6 cents per ounce
For refining bullion from 900½@750 parts gold, 7 cents per ounce
For refining bullion from 750½@850 parts gold 11 cents per ounce
For refining bullion from 850½@949½ parts gold, 14 cents per ounce
The charge for coinage is half of one per cent, and the charge for making fine silver bars, the same
Comparing the net value of deposits for coinage, with the proceeds of unparted gold bars sold in the market—assuming that the bars have cost ½ of one per cent.—they must be sold at the following par rates to equal the return which would have been made had they been deposited for coinage
850 par to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14 cents
845 par to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14 cents
815 par to equal San Francisco A & R Works return, at refining charge of 8 cents

STREET IMPROVEMENT.—The Common Council has ordered publication of notice for the improvement of Second street from the north line of Morrison street to the north line of Madison, by grading and laying down plank roadway fourteen feet in width. This action is not in accordance with the prayer of a large majority of the petitioners for the improvement of that part of the street. On that petition for a broken stone and clean gravel improvement there were originally twenty names, representing 90½ feet of ground fronting on the street. Those petitioning for the plank roadway were originally five, representing 133½ feet. Since the petitions were presented to the Council, John Badollet, by H. C Coulson, agent, has sent to a communication stating that his name was signed through a misunderstanding of the nature of the petition, so that one asking for plank improvement, and requesting that his name should be transferred to the petition for an improvement similar to that of Madison street. This makes twenty-one petitioners for the gravel street, representing 1,063½ feet, while the plank road party is supported by only four names, representing 733½ feet. Mr. Lownsdale, one of the parties to be affected, and now heading the majority petitioners, at the last meeting of the Council, moved that notice be given for improvement by broken stone and clean gravel. Mr. Hallock, who lives in another ward and who will not be affected pecuniarily in any manner whatever by the improvement, opposed this and moved an amendment directing the notice to be for a plank road-way of 16 feet in the centre of the street, the balance of the 50 feet on each side to be covered with gravel to the depth of two inches. Mr. Hallock's amendment was voted for by Messrs. Fechheimer, Hallock, Rosenblatt, and Zolber, neither of whom are to be affected by the improvement. Messrs. Carson, Lownsdale and McCraken voted against it. So the amendment was adopted and then the notice was ordered published. Mr. Hallock's argument against the sort of street the petitioners want, was in substance that nearly everybody wants the Nicolson pavement, but being unable to construct that sort of street now, they being unable to construct that sort of street now, they want a temporary improvement which can be removed after two, three or four years. A plank road is temporary in character and will not cost so much as the Nicolson; therefore, the people prefer to make such a street now and after awhile, tear it up and put down the Nicolson. What the petitioners prayed for, cut no figure in Mr. Hallock's argument. He had a notion that a plank improvement is the thing, and that crotchet bid from his mental view, altogether, whatever interest or wish the people on that part of the street might have in the premises. Mr. Hallock's argument and the vote in support of it, amounted to an assumption that four members of the Council know exactly what the petitioners want and what is best for them, while the petitioners do not know either. It was an overriding of the will of the people of which they have a right to complain and of which they do complain. Mr. Hallock piled his pet argument of economy, stating that his plan of improvement would cost only half what the broken stone and gravel street would cost, for which reason, more likely, ignoring the fact that the question of money is one which rests exclusively with those who have the bills to pay, and not with Mr. Hallock. Should Mr. Hallock prefer to put in his shop a forty horse-power engine, and Mr. Lownsdale should force him to accept a twenty horse-power now, with the privilege, after two or three years to throw it away and put in another forty-horse, Mr. Hallock would be likely to consider himself the best judge of his own competence to decide what were the eligible in the premises. The cases are parallel. The people want a macadamized street, and are willing to pay for it; Mr. Hallock intermeddles and forces upon them a different sort of street with the privilege of throwing it away in two or three years to build a macadamized one. By Mr. Hallock's plan, they will be called upon within the next three years, say, to make two street improvements, one of which has been proven to be worthless and dangerous after awhile; and the other, as yet, only an experiment of twenty-one months. The economy of the plan, with the present lights, is exceedingly doubtful. But economy or no economy, where the interests to be served are strictly local, the will of the local residents and property owners should be respected. No man in the Council, however statesmanlike he may be (in his own estimation) has the right to govern by his own will. Businessmen have a right to be heard and obeyed.

THE ROUTE TO IDAHO.—The Lewiston Journal, discussing the question of routes to Idaho, says: "We don't expect the Navigation [Oregon] company to favor us no further than they can foresee that it will result in their benefit. They may be more slow than others in foreseeing their own best policy. But that is none of our business. If they keep freights and passage so high as to abridge freight and travel, they must suffer in common with themselves. They have already forced the bulk of the travel off of the Columbia river to Chico and other overland routes from California, and a large portion of the freights, when a more liberal stroke of policy would have given the Columbia river all these advantages now has not. Perhaps they do not see this. But if they do not, there are none so blind as those who won't see. The people seem complacent that the travel and freighting up the Columbia has been greatly lessened this season from what it was last. * * * Now, we venture the opinion that there will not be more than one-twentieth less goods for immigration into Idaho than there was last. But high freights and passage on the Columbia have opened up cheaper channels of trade and travel. The Columbia is the natural inlet and outlet of all Idaho, and every man who has any pretensions to a knowledge of the country, knows this to be a fact. But the bad policy of Portland and those who control the trade on the Columbia, has imposed obstacles and barriers in this natural channel, such as have rendered the opening of other routes comparatively easy. Again, San Francisco capital has been prompt to take advantage of these obstructions to trade via Columbia, for the purpose of securing the direct trade of Idaho. We, of North Idaho, will have to plod on for a season. But as sure as the daily appearance of the sun rests we of North Idaho are going sooner or later to find a cheaper thoroughfare than the Columbia river at present, to connect us with the outside world, and if Portland and the Navigation Company do not wish to enter into the field of competition for reasonably cheap freights and passage, then we will soon be upon for a bid elsewhere.

SUNDAY CITY ITEMS.—We have received from Oregon City the following items:

Rev. F. S. Knight having accepted an invitation from the Congregational Church at Salem, to take the pastoral charge of the congregation at that place, left Oregon City, with his family, yesterday morning.....The P. T. Co. intend to commence the construction of locks around the falls, during the low water of this summer, under the superintendence of Capt. J. C. Ainsworth. Capt. Bingham and purser Bliss, have announced their intention of making the echoes of the upper Willamette with the whistle of the Alert, immediately after the completion of the locks. [The last item is probably a "gush" of our correspondent on R. and B.].....Workmen are clearing away the old Lumby near the basin, to make room for the new paper mill .....It is said that several new brick stores will be erected the coming season.....The salmon season has fairly commenced at the falls. One man took out yesterday morning two dozen fine ones.....Mr. J. T. Wortley, superintendent of the Woolen Mills, is talking of going east during the present year for the purpose of introducing into eastern mills, the machine invented by Mr. Ivey and Mr. Hoyt of Salem, for making double-twist yarn at our spinning.

THE NEWS.—The following note is from Mr. J. D. Lamy, of Oregon City, dated yesterday:

"Your local made a slight mistake in saying that the 'Yacht of Oregon City chartered the steamer Echo for excursion to Rock Island. We took the steamer Active under charge of Captain Pease, and had a most capital time. Another mistake, rather huge, too, this one, suggests that I was made happy by an escape from the bonds of single cussedness, (excuse that word, it seems apposite, I am polite,) into the company of happy Benedicts. As this complicates another, and may go further than my friend intended, please publish this, and oblige,

"Jno. Lamy."

The key to the above, it is only necessary to say that we had our item of yesterday, upon information voluntarily by that chief of practical jokers, Bilco. Hereafter when Bilco volunteers any of his "facetious" cussedness, we shall believe him or not, just as the circumstantial or direct evidence in the case shall dictate.

BLIND AND DOOR FACTORY.—We had the pleasure, a day or two since, of going through the factory of Messrs. Charles D Porter, in the upper end of the city. This is the largest shop of the kind in Portland. They have a valuable variety of machines, all of the latest improvements, devoted to the manufacture of sash, doors, blinds, mouldings, &c. An automaton mortising machine particularly attracted our attention. Messrs. C. & P. are manufacturing very largely and their wares are second to none on this coast.

AN ANTIDOTE FOR POISON.

THE PAIN KILLER.—Rev. T. Allen, writing from Tavoy, Burmah, says: "Within the past four years I have used and disposed of about five hundred bottles, but am now out. Please send me a fresh supply as soon as you can—say two hundred bottles. I dare not be without it myself, and there are endless calls for it, both by Burmans and Karens. I always take it with me into the jungles, and have frequent occasion to use it, both on myself and others One night, while sleeping in an open Zayats, I was awoke by a most excruciating pain in my foot. On examination, I found I had been bitten by a centipede. I immediately applied the Pain Killer, and found instant relief. In less than an hour I was again asleep"

Rev. Mr Hibbard, writing from Burmah to his father, says: "I have used Davis' Pain Killer for coughs, colds, summer complaints, burns, and for the sting of scorpions, with uniform success We always keep it where we can lay our hands on it in the dark, if need be" ap20d1to

LADD & TILTON,
General Agents for

Coin of the Richmond Banks.

Mr. Van Wyck, from the Committee on Retrenchments, to which was referred the claim of the Richmond Banks to certain coin now on deposit in the United States Treasury, makes the following report

On the 14th of March, 1864, the Legislature of Virginia passed an act "authorising a loan to the Commonwealth of $300,000 in gold and silver coin by the several banks, and the application thereof to the use of the Army of Northern Virginia," ordering the Auditor "to pay over the same on the footing of a loan to the Confederate States, either to the Secretary of War or to the General in Chief of the Confederate Army, as the Governor may deem most expedient, to be used exclusively for the purpose of procuring subsistence for the Army of Northern Virginia," directing the Governor "to obtain from the Confederate authorities the best securities they may have it in their power to give."

Accordingly, seven banks furnished $300,000, receiving State bonds as security therefor, $100,000 of which is now in the Treasury of the United States, and is the subject of this report The money was deposited by the State to its credit in three banks, then public depositories, as follows Bank of Virginia, $108,000; Farmers' Bank, $112,000, Exchange Bank, $80,000. The Secretary of the Confederate Treasury caused to be delivered to the Governor of the State the following order:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, C. S. A., }
RICHMOND, March 23, 1863. }

A. Keane, Esq., Chief Produce Loan Bureau—Sir The State of Virginia has advanced $300,000 in coin to the Government for the use of the Commissary Department, and agrees to receive in absolute payment for the same, cotton, at the rate of 15 cents per pound You are hereby authorized to give an order to the fiscal officer of the State for 2,000,000 pounds of cotton, in payment of the same, etc.

C. A. TRENHOLM,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Capt. Strother, of the Confederate army, had authority to receive the $300,000. Just before the evacuation of Richmond he did receive $271,000, the banks retaining $29,000. He disbursed $25,000 at Richmond, leaving $246,000, of which $54,000 were in checks drawn by the Bank of Virginia and the Exchange Bank on their branch at Lynchburgh. Capt. Strother left Richmond on the 2d of April, 1865, with this sum under his control, in company with officers of the bank, who had in charge between $200,000 and $300,000, in coin, belonging to the banks, each party in control of its own funds. At Danville, on the 8th of April, Capt. Strother agreed with the officers of the banks that, in the event of his being cut off from Gen. Lee's army, he would restore the remainder of the funds to them, to be credited on the bonds of the State, which the banks held; they then proceeded to Washington, Ga. Capt. Strother, on the 21st of April, 1865, had remaining $232,929, which he paid to the bank officers, taking a receipt for the same, stating that the same should be credited on the bonds, "provided the said coin and specie checks shall be delivered in Richmond." There was no statute authorizing this payment by Capt. Strother. The bank officers canceled and destroyed the checks for $64,000, and held the remainder of the fund, together with their own coin.

In May, 1865, the banks of Richmond obtained a permit from Gen. Patrick to bring back their effects from Georgia; and started with the coin, about $450,000; of this, $170,000 was of the fund received from Capt. Strother.

About eighteen miles from Washington, they were robbed by Confederate soldiers disguised in Federal uniform, of $250,000 in coin; $105,000 belonging to the Bank of Virginia; $145,000 had belonged to the Strother fund. The day after, the robbers restored to the bank officers $111,000; of this, one bag of $9000 was identified as the property of the banks; the remainder could not be so identified. After paying expenses, the fund recovered amounted to about $100,000, subsequently delivered to Gen. Steedman, at Augusta, and now on special deposit in the Treasury.

GEN. BENEDEK AND THE PRUSSIAN WAR.—I do not think one officer or one soldier of Austria felt that his love and confidence in him were affected a straw's breadth by the disastrous issue of the late war. When, at the time of his being dispatched against Prussia, he observed to the Emperor, "Your Majesty, I am no strategist," he did himself less than justice; he was, and is, a most able, brave and sagacious commander, and unwearied in his attention to the comforts and welfare of his men. A Protestant in religion and a Hungarian by birth, with troops under him drawn from every nation in the empire, he yet possessed their confidence absolutely; and this in itself is a great merit. The numerous grave and never ending difficulties against which he had to contend will never, in all probability, be made known, still less will the Prussians ever willingly admit how large were indebted to their vast and perfect organization for their rapid success; but it is a question that if the secret history of the campaign, especially in the beginning, were laid before the world, Benedek would be considered as great a general as Moltke, if dishes was commonly supposed to be. While the victory was due to those who commanded his subordinates, the blame was to be endeavored to be common, whereas the other reaped the exclusive credit which ought in justice to have been shared by others. After the war with Prussia had commenced, I had an opportunity of conversing with an Austrian officer who had been an old comrade of mine in the Jagers, and he said: "Whichever way matters go this time, we are convinced that we are in good hands, for Benedek is our Commander-in-Chief, and he is a man of action and no boaster." The least intelligent and reliable portion of the Austrian army was committed to his care, and he was sent to fight on ground with which he was but little if at all acquainted; whereas the line of the Italian battle-fields was as well known to him as his playground is to a school boy. Moreover, the troops kept in Italy were chiefly Germans, and they were the very flower of our army; they were intelligent, brave, steady soldiers, dogged fighters, hating bitterly the Prussians and adoring Benedek. Yet these men were reserved, in order to win for the Archduke Albert an easy victory. It was a terrible mistake to send the best army against the least formidable foe; for, whatever the qualities of the Italians may be, they can bear no sort of comparison with the Prussians as soldiers. The self-indulgent, dilatory conduct of Count Clam-Gallas is a matter of notoriety. Others were equally to blame; and I have heard that some of these haughty aristocrats openly reproach Benedek with being an innkeeper's son, and on that ground declined to obey orders. "What could Benedek do," the people vaguely asked, "when those others would not go where they were told?" Yet even after defeat, his last action was that of a gentleman of chivalrous honor and noble heart, for he begged of the Emperor that others should not suffer, but that he alone should bear the burden of ruin and disaster, so that the prestige and credit of the Austrian army should be saved, if that might still be. Cornhill Magazine.

A person who was in Fort Fisher during the bombardment tells the following story in an English magazine: "Oh the agony of despair to see ball and shell falling harmless from those turrets of iron, or rolling like pellets along the low decks, whilst the gallant defenders of Fort Fisher were falling in sheaves within a fortification which would, four short years before, have defied the efforts of any navy—'a work,' as Porter says, 'stronger than anything Sebastopol could boast of.' One day a happy shot from the Fort succeeded in finding its way into a weak spot of a two-turreted monitor; a piece of iron evidently was turned up, and jammed the turret. Hurrah! one at last disabled, thought the poor Confederates. By Jove! see two sailors quietly walk out and set themselves down, the one holding a chisel, the other striking with a hammer. They were cutting away the obstruction, and so secure was the monitor against any vital injury being inflicted on her, that, although silenced, she would not retire from her position. A swarm of Southern riflemen were thrown out to slay the two bold Federals; but no one hit them, and they worked on calmly, until General Whiting generously interfered, and said, "Such gallant fellows deserve to live; cease firing, my lads, at them." So the iron was cut away."

PRESIDENTIAL CLIQUES.—An enterprising Washington correspondent of a Western paper has heard of three terrible cliques or conspiracies by whom wires are being lain for controlling the operation of the next Presidential campaign. There is, he says, the Chase ring—managers, Jay Cooke & Co., John Sherman & Co., and Little, Sprague & Co., the Wade ring—managers, "all the hot gospellers of the red-pepper and brimstone school;" and the Colfax ring—managers, "the poets, writers, lecturers, and dilletant statesman." He irreverently intimates that the first has the money, the second the brains, and the third the impudence of the Washington political agglomerate. Furthermore, he is of opinion that all of them are wilfully shutting their ears to the tramp of the coming people and the Grand Army of the Republic, with Old Pap Thomas at their head. Singularly enough, for a rural retailer of gossip from the capital he does not say anything about nous verrons.

FRENCH VINEYARDS.—A Paris correspondent states that there are 2,200,000 proprietors of vineyards in France, 1,000 varieties of wine cultivated, 5,435,000 acres of land devoted to vineyards, and in 1864 the crop was 1,320,000,000 gallons of wine, worth $100,000,000.

Gov. Geary's Response to the North Carolina Call for a National Convention.

Gov. Geary has communicated the following message to the Legislature of Pennsylvania relative to the call of North Carolina for a National Convention to amend the Constitution of the United States

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
HARRISBURGH, March 14, 1867 }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania GENTLEMEN A letter dated 6th inst has just been received from Hon. Jonathan Worth, Governor of North Carolina, covering a set of resolutions adopted by the Legislature of that District, both of which, according to his request, are herewith transmitted to you.

The object of the resolutions is to invite "all the States—north, south, east and west"—to a national convention, for the purpose of "proposing, in exact conformity with the Constitution of the United States, such amendments to the Constitution that the result will be such mutual concessions as will lead to a restoration of our former happy relation"

Under ordinary circumstances I would be satisfied to simply submit this communication to the Legislature without comment; but in this instance the occasion seems to demand something more. I am by no means insensible to a noble, mutual concession and forbearance necessary to impart vitality to our national existence, and, therefore, in deliberating upon this important subject, I would recommend that local feelings and prejudices be merged in a patriotic determination to promote the public welfare. But when we reflect that the people of North Carolina, inviting this Assembly, are not in full communion with the loyal States, that they have been for many years in the habit of looking with great indifference upon the national interests and of tolerating disloyalty, that throughout the thrilling and sanguinary war of the rebellion they used their utmost efforts to destroy the Constitution and the Union, and to establish a hostile Government of their own; that they have recently refused to ratify the mild and wholesome amendments to the Constitution; that Congress, by the passage of the Reconstruction Act, has made a salutary provision for their future military government, and for that of the other refractory districts lately engaged in rebellion, is not the presumption with which these unrepentant rebels and subjugated traitors now ask for "mutual concessions," surprising? The people of Pennsylvania have always been loyal to the Government, true to the Constitution and laws of the nation, and has stood in the foremost ranks of the defenders of the Union. They have no concessions to make, certainly none to those who waged a treasonable war, and who have been conquered at the point of the bayonet. The doctrine is certainly abhorrent that defeated treason should ask the loyal men of this country to meet them upon equal terms in convention to amend the Constitution they repudiated and attempted to destroy. The guilty failure of those men has assigned them to a far different task—submission to the terms of the conquerors and obedience to that law which we all obey.

While Pennsylvania has no concessions to make, her people, desiring a speedy, just and proper readjustment of all the States in the Union, earnestly beseech the citizens of North Carolina, and of all the Southern States, to return without delay to the benign influences of the Government while yet the terms of such a return are easy, and not to wait for more severe conditions, and, perhaps, for more serious punishment. J. W. GEARY.

CICERO A PRETENDER.—As a statesman without insight, opinion or purpose, he figured successively as democrat, as aristocrat, and as a tool of the monarch, and was never more than a short-sighted egotist. When he presented the semblance of action, the questions to which his action applied had, as a rule, just reached their solution; thus he came forward in the trial of Verres against the senatorial judicia when they were already set aside; thus he was silent at the discussion of the Gabinian, and acted as the champion of the Manilian law; thus he thundered against Catalina when his departure was already settled, etc. He was valiant in opposition to sham attacks, and he knocked down many walls of pasteboard with a loud din; no serious matter was ever, either in good or evil, decided by him, and the execution of the Catilinarians in particular was far more due to his acquiescence than to his instigation. In a literary point of view, we have already noticed that he was the creator of the modern Latin prose; his importance rests on his mastery of style, and it is only as a stylist that he shows confidence in himself. In the character of an author, on the other hand, he stands quite as low as that of a statesman. He essayed the most varied tasks, sang the great deeds of Marius and his own petty achievements in endless hexameters, beat Demosthenes off the field with his speeches and Plato with his philosophic dialogues; and time alone was wanting for him to vanquish also Thucydides. He was, in fact, so thoroughly a dabbler that it was pretty much a matter of indifference to what work he applied his hand. By nature a journalist, in the worst sense of the term, abounding, as he himself says, in words poor beyond all conception in ideas, there was no department in which he could fail, with the help of a few books, have rapidly got up by translation or compilation a readable essay.—Mommsen's Rome.

ACCEPTING SETTLED FACTS.—The disposition to accept the situation and adapt themselves to its requirements, evidently grows among the Southern people. The folly of kicking against the pricks begins to be appreciated. The Macon (Ga.) Journal, approving the course pursued by the Virginia Legislature and the altered tone of the leading journals of Richmond, remarks:

No possible reaction in the Northern mind can relieve the Southern States from the final consummation of the policy which has been adopted by the Radicals. We have no doubt "capitals, merchants and bankers" will squirm over it, and vent their sighs and groans more eloquently than the Southern people, the real sufferers, who are accustomed to misfortune; but nothing can exceed the indifference of the Radicals to merchants, bankers and capitalists. The power is theirs for two years to come, and they are backed up by the great body of the voters and the preachers.

Negro suffrage, then, is and will be a fixed fact, and once conceded, we have not the smallest idea it will ever be withdrawn. When and where in America, in the regular operation of politics, was suffrage ever restricted and curtailed? Wisdom, then, tells us that, accepting settled facts, we should address ourselves with prudence and judgment to the work of reconciling them, as far as possible, to the common welfare. Whites, instead of refusing to vote, should see the greater importance of using the suffrage for their own protection and the public good. Instead of turning their backs upon politics in listless disguise the situation demands new care and a more cautious and prudent administration than ever.

A NEW FIREARM.—It is known that the inertia of the ball in a musket causes a certain time to elapse after the explosion of the powder before the ball is set in motion. A certain amount of the explosive force of the powder, therefore, is wasted, and the more rapid the explosion the greater the loss from this cause. To obviate this, an artisan of Lisbon has invented a new breech-loader, in which the force of the charge is first communicated to an elastic body, which is easily set in motion, and the force which, in ordinary cases, is wasted, but in this is stored up, is gradually communicated to the ball after it has begun to move. The charge is ignited by a needle, the explosion commencing at the end next the ball, but between the latter and the gunpowder are placed five pads of felt, those next the ball having been, for the sake of lubrication, moistened with a fatty matter. This arrangement altogether changes the nature of the explosion A white smoke escapes from the muzzle instead of the flame, and the penetrative effect of the ball is much greater than that of a ball from an ordinary musket. If the pads are moved, the force of the recoil of the weapon is proportionately increased

The "Table Talk" of the Guardian makes reference to a curious fact: "It may be interesting to our University readers to know that Milton was not only a poet, but a lexicographer, and that he made some contributions to the Latin Dictionary of Ainsworth It appears that the compilers of the Cambridge Dictionary, published in 1693, made use of a MS. collection in three large folios, made by 'Mr. John Milton' out of all the best and purest Roman authors Also the fourth edition of Dr. Adam Littleton's Latin Dictionary, published in 1703, has an acknowledgment on the title-page of its indebtedness to the same MS of Milton. Those two dictionaries were the immediate precursors of that of Ainsworth, which is evidently based upon them although much improved."

In Kentucky lives a man, the head of a very respectable and intelligent family, who, during one week in each month, about the first quarter of the moon, imagines himself a woman, dons the hoops and balmoral, and sits in his parlor waiting for his beau! This strange conduct was first noticed in him when he was about seventeen years of age. He is now fifty-one.

The city of New Orleans contains 66,052 school children between the ages of six and eighteen years. Of this number, 29,183 scholars are colored and 45,769 white.

COOLIE SLAVERY IN CUBA.—A Havana correspondent says the Coolie immigration seems to have increased of late. The Coolies are coming in in large numbers, ship after ship If we look seriously at this traffic in human beings—for, in the way it is carried on, it can be called nothing else—I should say that it is high time something was done on behalf of so many unfortunate beings It is all very well to say that Cuba has no other alternative than to entice them to those shores, since the negro trade is defunct, and that, unless the Asiatics are introduced to do the field labor the island will be ruined. But if so much is pensable, why should it not be done in a more humane manner, and why does Government not give it its proper attention? Most people whose opinions are worthy of credit consider the traffic worse than the negro trade Be this as it may, we all know that the so-called contracts are nothing but a substitute for bills of sale, and as to the general treatment of Coolies, on the plantations and elsewhere in the country, it is no better than the cruelty practiced with negro slaves. It is a great mistake to believe what taskmasters and overseers say on the subject; these would wish to see them of a humiliating disposition, entirely submissive to the caprices and exactions of their masters, as the negro seems to be by nature; they will always forget that Asiatics are not Africans, that Coolies are freeborn men, and that therefore they can never feel like slaves, nor will they submit to the lash as the poor Africans do. Many of the overseers and others do not heed these considerations, and this accounts for the continual disorders with which the accounts from the country are filled, and which frequently lead to murder and even assassination. Theother day the entire gang of a plantation, which is well known, abandoned it rather than take "retributive justice" into their own hand. But who is to vindicate the rights of the Coolies when their taskmasters are in the wrong? Who can explain their complaints in the absence of proper regulations, and what is to restrict the tyranny of ignorant and barbarous overseers? A Spanish Syndicn's duty it is, by an joint law, to defend them, as in the case with the African slave, but Chinese is worse than Greek to him. Besides, that functionary resides in the capital, and the Chinaman is far beyond communication with him The coolie therefore has no alternative but to run away. If he does so he is either hunted up by bloodhounds, put in the stocks and placed on short allowance, or else got flogged. If he effects his escape he becomes a criminal, is caught sooner or later, and finally doomed to hard labor for an indefinite period on the public works of the Government. Is this the sin of immigration and colonization of coolies? All this is of common occurrence here, without any sort of inquiry or investigation being made as to the compliments or conduct of the coolie or his master. It is thus that the labor contract is carried out in the Island of Cuba. The man never sees his country again, and the only consolation he has is that which his peculiar creed affords him in death.

POPPEY THE GREAT.—He was neither a bad nor an incapable man, but a man thoroughly ordinary, created by nature to be a good sergeant, called by circumstances to be a General and statesman. An intelligent, brave and experienced, thoroughly excellent soldier, he was still, even in his military capacity, without trace of any higher gifts. It was characteristic of him as a General, as well as in other respects, to set to work with a caution bordering on timidity, and if possible, to give the decisive blow only where he had established an immense superiority over his opponent. * * * In the tumult of battle he faced the enemy fearlessly; in civil life, he was a shy man, whose cheek flushed on the slightest occasion; he spoke in public not without embarrassment, and generally was angular, stiff and awkward in intercourse. For nothing was he less qualified than for a statesman. Uncertain as to his aims, unskilful in the choice of his means, alike in little and great matters, short sighted and helpless, he was wont to conceal his irresolution and indecision under a solemn silence, and when he thought to play a subtle game, simply to deceive himself with the belief that he was deceiving others.—Mommsen's Rome.

The London correspondent of the Round Table has received from a Mr. George Harvey, a bookseller doing business in the great metropolis, a circular form requesting him to insert his name as a subscriber to a new work entitled, "Was Washington Born in England?" These eccentricities of literature are becoming a nuisance. What with pamphlets proving Napoleon Bonaparte to have been a myth, and bulky volumes to prove that Shakespeare never wrote his own plays, and extracts from scandalous old books going to show that Pocahontas was a disreputable young squaw, who turned somersaults in public places with a pack of dirty boys, we are beginning to lose all faith in history and tradition. Better sum up the whole current of objections doubt in one exhaustive one, and call it, "Did Anything Ever Happen?" "Has Anybody Ever Been?"

The following from the New York Post will refresh the thousands of hopeful correspondents of the benevolent millionaire: George Peabody, intending soon to leave for England, informs those who have written to him asking loans of money, subscriptions to churches, public charities, etc., or assistance for themselves or others, that the great number of these communications has rendered it impossible for him to read or answer, or even to open them in person. These letters, amounting to nearly four thousand, have been burned in his presence.

A Trenton letter to the Newark (N. J.) Courier says:

A number of your leading Democrats have signed a petition to strike the word "white" from the Constitution. Among these progressives are John McGregor, John H. Meeker, Wm. B. Guild and Andrew A. Smalley—all staunch Democrats, perhaps, as can be found in the State.
